

NDSU Extension identified a critical need for professionals with experience in farm and ranch succession planning. To address that need, NDSU Extension hosted a Certified Succession Planner training conducted by John Baker, Attorney with the International Farm Transition Network. The certification training was open to professionals.

Below is a list of those who have been certified since 2015. NDSU Extension does not endorse individual professionals, but is pleased to provide this list of professionals who have become Certified Succession Planners.

This list will be updated as more professionals complete future certification courses conducted by the International Farm Transition Network staff.
